

BUILDING FOR THE FUTURE

KUBOTA GARDEN MASTER PLAN UPDATE OPEN HOUSES AT THE GARDEN

You are Invited!

Come learn what future improvements are being proposed for Kubota Garden.

The Kubota Garden Foundation is proposing updates to the garden's master plan and received a funding match from the Seattle Park District Major Projects Challenge Fund for the planning process and plan update.

There have been many changes to Kubota Garden since its master plan was put in place almost 30 years ago. This Master Plan Update will guide garden development programs and maintenance for the next 20 to 30 years: preserving the garden and passive recreation use, while defining future improvements such as buildings, parking, pathways, and security. The Master Plan Update will also include assessments of the garden's existing creek, vegetation and wildlife, and include recommendations for their protection. The goal is to help Kubota Garden to better serve the public.

Please drop in to meet the design team of Jones & Jones Architects and Landscape Architects and Hoshide Wanzer Architects, to learn about the site opportunities and constraints, and to offer your thoughts on what is important to you at Kubota Garden. The design team will use this public input as they develop ideas for the garden, which they will present to the public in early fall.

SUNDAY, JUNE 17 & SATURDAY, JUNE 23, 2018 10 A.M.-2 P.M.

KUBOTA GARDEN, 9817 55TH AVE. S, SEATTLE WA 98178
